To Get Passaic River Water.
The Montclair Water Company, which obtains its supply from the Pequannock, sent a communication to the Montclair Town Council Monday night to the effect that it intended to furnish the town with Passaic filtered water.
The communication was as follows:

"On June 29, 1899, this company gave notice that, in accordance with our contract of March 1, 1896, it would on or after the twenty-fifth day of September, 1900, provide water taken from the new works of this company at Little Falls, in addition to the water from wells at Watchung, as now delivered.

"We have not yet made the change in accordance with this notice, but during the coming year this company expects to be able to deliver filtered water to the town, which will be in fulfillment of the notice of June 29, 1899."

The communication was signed by Whiting G. Snow, president of the company. The Council put the notice on file.

Hospital Governors.
The Board of Governors of Mountain-side Hospital has elected the following officers for 1904: President, Mrs. Herbert M. Lloyd; Vice-Presidents, Mrs.
Franklin W. Dorman, Miss Josephine D.
Davis, Miss M. S. Jarvis; Recording Secretary, Mrs. William H. White; Corresponding Secretary pro tem., Miss Estelle Van Lennep; Treasurer, Miss Gladys B. Smith.

When Bloomfielders Fled.

Joseph Folson recently published an interesting article on the historic subject, "The Battle of Trenton." In describing incidents preceding that battle he says:

"Newark at this time must have been in a chaotic social state, with wagons departing for Morristown, Caldwell and elsewhere toward the mountains. Citizens had been advised to do this two weeks previously by Dr. Wm. Burnett, chairman of the Committee of Safety, who received a letter from Washington, written at White Plains, dated November 7, suggesting that all those who lived near the water should remove their stock, grain and carriages back into the country, to prevent them from falling into the hands of General Howe's army.

"Caldwell was the favorite hiding place for many who lived in the Ward-season or Bloomfield district. Jacob Ward kept the public house at Ward-season. It was located near the centre of the present Bloomfield, on the 'old road to Newark.' When he heard that a party of British foragers was approaching he hastily prepared to move to Caldwell, where he owned a farm. Several ox loads of goods were made ready, and with the exception of one all were gotten away safely. The last one, however, was captured by the enemy, and to escape being made a prisoner himself Jacob Ward hid in the underbrush along Toney's brook. It is said that the delay in getting the last load off was caused by somebody forgetting to take the baby and the necessity of returning for it.

"In 1789, according to a State law, a Commission brought in a report of losses sustained by inhabitants of Essex County through depredations of the British army, and in the Wardseason list, Jacob Ward's losses are appraised at £162 6-6 for the year 1776. With but a few exceptions all the Bloomfield losses occurred in the year of the retreat, and this fact establishes the date for most of the Revolutionary traditions that remain.

"On the road from Second river (Belleville) to Wardseason, a number of incidents occurred. A party of British surrounded the old Mordah Winne stone house, which still bears the date in iron figures, 1666, and a soldier punched a hole in the glass over the rear entrance door with his bayonet. At another house, that of a Mrs. King, the hostess invited the soldiers to come in and dine, hoping by this conciliatory measure to save her neighbors from molestation.
When a farmer named Bergen heard of the approach of the foragers, he led out his best horse, and giving it a kick, sent it surprised and frightened into the woods, where it was later found by its owner.

"Every town along the line of the retreat must have been the scene of many interesting, as well as many unhappy, incidents. Washington left Newark on November 28, and arrived at New Brunswick on the next day, where the army remained until December 1."

Lackawanna's New Ferry.

With President Truesdale's return from abroad it is expected that work on the new Twenty-third street terminal of the Lackawanna Railroad in New York will be begun very shortly. The plans call for a structure 225 feet long, extending from the E. L. ferry to Twenty-third street.

The building is to be entirely of steel, and will be one of the most modern and complete ferryhouses in New York. A unique feature of its construction will be the exterior, which is to be entirely of copper. There will be a central door, surmounted by a dome 135 feet high.
Three ferry slips will be provided, affording frequent service, not only to the Lackawanna Railroad's terminal, but also to Fourteenth street, Hoboken.
There will be waiting rooms on the first and second floor, and as soon as the road secures its fleet of double-decked ferryboats passengers will be able to board the boats direct from the upper floors.

The building will have four arched entrances, with a covered archway fifty feet wide. This will enable vehicles containing passengers to secure ample protection in inclement weather. It is planned also to have surface cars transverse tracks carried beneath these arches, so that passengers may be delivered direct to the entrance of the building.

The road also has in mind the establishment of an up-to-date cab and carriage service for the benefit of its passengers, and a superintendent will be in constant attendance. It is probable that before these plans are completed additional buildings for the accommodation of railroad traffic will be determined upon, which will make the length of the structure approximately 650 feet.
The work is to be pushed with all possible speed, and it is hoped that the new ferry will be in operation in less than a year's time.

Predictions Verified.

It looks very much as if the predictions of the opponents of the Passaic Valley Interception sewer scheme were going to come true after all. New York city has at last begun to take an interest in the proposition to pollute the bay with at least million gallons of sewage an hour, and it is probable that injunctions will be obtained before very long and the suits that have been promised will be begun. Engineer C. C. Vermeule, who has been active in the opposition to the trunk sewer, believing that a certain plan to increase the flow of the river itself would remove the nuisance of pollution, may be said to be responsible for the awakened interest in New York. His address before the New Jersey State Sanitary Commission at Lakewood recently attracted the attention of the New York press, and a few days ago the New York Bay Pollution Committee held its first public hearing, at which Mr. Vermeule's remarks were one of the factors in the discussion. At the pollution hearing the most vigorous protests against the outlet were made by representatives of oystermen and fishermen who gain their livelihoods in the waters it is proposed to pollute, and they were positive in their conviction that the dumping of so much sewage in the bay at that point would ruin their oyster beds and put an end to the fishing. They cited cases on the Long Island shore where men had been ruined by the same agency. In spite of the fact that the Commission appointed under the terms of the sewer law reported to Governor Murphy that the outlet would do no damage, there is pretty sure now to be considerable of an outcry against it and no end of litigation if the State persists in its course.—Orange Chronicle.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear.

There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies.
Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous services.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
